Global Safety & Security

This role focuses on strengthening global safety and security for Emory's global travelers and its global activities.

Resources and services within this portfolio will continue to evolve, but the current focus areas are:

- ❖ University standard-setting: Collaborate with programs on safety and security standards for global activities
- ❖ Departmental consultation: One-on-one departmental consultations to assess safety and security concerns for global activities and/or Emory-sponsored international travel
- ❖ Global safety and security risk management and crisis response

International SOS

Emory contracts with International SOS (ISOS) to provide:

- Security, political, natural disaster and medical evacuations
- Variety of online health, safety, and security resources for the university community traveling abroad on university business or sponsored activities.

- 24-hour worldwide assistance centers
- Pre-trip consultations with experts
 - Potential risks in destination country
 - Travel nurse for health-related questions (vaccine requirement, medications)
- Emotional Support Services

Note: ISOS is NOT health insurance. Before you travel, determine your personal insurance needs and how your own health insurance applies to international care.
