Research Security Training Requirements

This training is mandated by the CHIPS and Science Act of 2022 and NSPM-33 and is increasingly being included in the terms and conditions of subawards from other institutions. Federal agencies such as NIH and NSF have begun enforcing these requirements, with additional mandates taking effect in the coming months.

Why is this training required?

The RS training covers key areas including:

- Foreign travel and foreign components
- Export controls and cybersecurity
- Disclosure requirements (including NIH Other Support)
- Insider threat awareness
- Foreign talent recruitment programs
- Data sharing

What does the training cover?

Emory provides a comprehensive training module in the Brainier Learning Management System that consolidates all federal requirements into a single 45-minute session. The module is regularly updated to reflect changes in federal guidance.

Training completion will be tracked in the new Investigator Portal/Dashboard. The compliance dashboard is accessible to researchers, ADRs, administrative staff, OSP, and RCRA.

Action Required: Complete the training in Brainier and update your disclosure profile in Insight to ensure full compliance.

Who is required to complete the training?

Similar to disclosure updates, completion of training is mandatory.

Failure to complete the required training will result in delays in proposal processing and prevent award setup.

All faculty engaged in federally funded research are encouraged to complete the training as soon as possible to ensure compliance and to avoid delays in proposal submissions or funding.

If you have questions or need assistance accessing the training, please don't hesitate to reach out.

What happens if training is not completed?
